Corrections & Complaints Policy

Effective date: 16 November 2026 · Version 1.0

1. Purpose

1.1 Tech Revolt is committed to the accuracy of its journalism. This Policy sets out how Tech Revolt receives, assesses and resolves requests for correction and complaints concerning its Editorial Content.

1.2 It is Tech Revolt's policy to correct significant errors as soon as possible, and not to amend the factual content of published material without notice.

2. Scope

2.1 This Policy applies to all Editorial Content published by Tech Revolt on any platform, including headlines, captions, newsletters and social media posts.

3. Submitting a Request

3.1 Requests for correction and complaints may be submitted by any person to hello@techrevolt.org, using one of the following subject lines followed by the headline of the article concerned:

- Corrections: "URGENT CORRECTION: [article headline]"
- Complaints: "COMPLAINT: [article headline]"

3.2 A request should include:

(a) a link to, or identification of, the relevant content;

(b) the information considered to be inaccurate; and

(c) any evidence or source supporting the correct position.

4. Response Timeframes

4.1 Tech Revolt shall acknowledge each request within two (2) working days of receipt.

4.2 The responsible editor shall assess the request and Tech Revolt shall aim to communicate its decision within five (5) working days. Where further enquiries are required, the requester shall be informed.

4.3 Where Tech Revolt determines that no amendment is warranted, it shall provide reasons.

5. Categories of Amendment

Category	Applies where	Form of notice
Correction	A material fact, such as a name, figure, date, title or claim, is inaccurate	Amendment to the text and a dated correction notice at the foot of the content
Clarification	The content is accurate but liable to mislead, or omits material context	Addition of context and a dated clarification notice
Update	Material developments occur, or a response is received, after publication	Addition of new information, an "Updated" date and a short notice

Editor's Note	A serious matter arises, such as an unreliable source or an undisclosed interest	A notice at the head of the content explaining the matter
Removal	Exceptional circumstances only, such as a legal requirement or a genuine risk to personal safety	A notice at the original location stating that the content has been removed and, where possible, why

5.1 Amendments to spelling, grammar or formatting that do not alter meaning may be made without notice.

6. Form of Notice

6.1 Correction notices shall take the following form:

> Correction, [date]: An earlier version of this article stated that [company] raised $6 million. The correct figure is $4 million. The article has been amended.

6.2 Where the inaccurate information appeared in a headline, caption, newsletter or social media post, Tech Revolt shall, where practicable, amend or correct that material also.

7. Corrections Register

7.1 Tech Revolt maintains a register of corrected content on this page, listed in reverse chronological order.

8. Escalation and Review

8.1 A requester who is dissatisfied with Tech Revolt's decision may request a review by the Editor in Chief by replying to the original correspondence.

8.2 Where the matter remains unresolved, it may be referred to the Managing Director for final review.

8.3 Tech Revolt shall aim to conclude every complaint within thirty (30) days of receipt.

9. Review and Amendment

9.1 This Policy is reviewed annually. Tech Revolt reserves the right to amend it at any time; the current version is published on this page.
